ENDURA VENTURI II £139.99

Like the Altura Attack, the Venturi II has impressive breathability and waterproofing from the three-layer PTFE Protection fabric. This jacket borrows features off the MT500 we tested a few months back, including the padded fleecy collar, zip-off inner cosy wrist cuffs and three-layer material mapped to the shoulders and underarms.

The jacket gets pre-shaped elbows and two large waterproof side vents, which are pack compatible. The main zip is also waterproof with regulation 'zip garage' and laser cut inner storm flap. There are fittings for an optional hood, which sells for £14.99.

Like the Gore Fusion II, the Ventura has the goods for harsher conditions but I found it has a slightly less durable DWR proofing and isn't as waterproof.
